His love for spinning records started very early, when he was twelve he bought his first single, then two turntables and a mixer. A bit of messing around in the attic, recording mixtapes, etc. Soon after that he started spinning records at school parties, weddings, camping sites,

After school he started DJing to earn his living in the nightlife. First with funk and soul influences, later he came into contact with the house phenomenon and was immediately captivated by it. Because of his curiosity for new music he experienced the whole rise and development of house, through acid from mellow to hardcore and from minimal to drum 'bass.

Through Spain, where he played in various clubs in Blanes and after a break, the DJ blood began to itch again.

My style cannot be summed up in one word: "it depends on where I play and for whom". Over the years he has become an all-round DJ who can handle almost any style.

At the moment his preference goes out to club & house music. Nice and danceable, music to go crazy on. "The best part of being a DJ is seeing how people dance and enjoy the music you play".
